How to harness the power of technology in the development of methodologies and curriculum? How can the LSGL articulate a position on these issues and develop innovative approaches to the challenges? Background information: Online and blended learning Martin Boehm, Dean of Programs, IE Business School |
| 11:00h | Discussion |
| 11:30h | Coffee Break |
| 11:50h | TOPIC 2: Is there a need for developing global standards for law schools? Some basic reflections. The underlying idea is that, in a highly globalized and rapidly changing (higher education) world, law schools need to have the capacity to react fast in order to reap emerging opportunities. How is that capacity shaped by current (mainly national) regulatory regimes, and how can the LSLG articulate a position on the issue? Is moving to global standards for legal education a possible answer? |
